REPORT.

The friends and subscribers to the Asylum, or School of Industry for the Blind, will long remember the interesting Reports of the years 1838 and 1839; in the former of which the reasons were stated, which decided your Committee in preferring the Roman characters used by Mr. Alston, of Glasgow, for teaching the blind, to the Short-hand characters used by the late Mr. Lucas. Most too of the Members present will recollect the delight with which they then listened to the feeling and sensible letter of Elizabeth Allport, a pupil of this Institution, addressed to Mr. Alston, in which she so simply yet forcibly explains the ground of her preference of his system. Nor can they have forgotten the valuable observations of the Rev. Mr. Taylor, of the York Asylum, recorded in the last Report, on the general treatment of the blind, and in which, after a minute inspection of this Establishment, he bears such ample and honourable testimony to its efficiency.

It is not to be expected that every year should afford matter for such interesting communication. But though your Committee have nothing very new to communicate, they confidently assure this meeting that the object of their benevolent intentions has been steadily kept in view, and diligently carried out during the past year, and that it is most gratifying to witness the progress which some of the pupils have made in a short time, as well in mental acquirements as in manual dexterity. In these, as in all other pursuits, the diligent and persevering will always outstrip the careless and indolent.

The number of pupils admitted into the Asylum during the last year was 12. The number remaining at the close of the year was 64. Still there is room for more; and the Committee beg leave again to repeat the assertion made last year, that the Asylum is capable of receiving for the purposes of instruction a larger number; that there is, in fact, a long list of candidates now waiting for admission, but whom it is impossible to receive for want of the necessary funds. They would, therefore, earnestly intreat all who commiserate the lot of those deprived of the inestimable blessings of sight, to exert individually their personal endeavours in making known more widely the advantages of our Asylum, which confines the benefits it would confer within no local or narrow bounds, but offers them freely and impartially to this indigent and afflicted class, from whatever part of the country, or however distant, they may claim its sympathy and seek its instruction. While then your Committee gratefully acknowledge the legacies and donations which from time to time have been bequeathed and given to this Institution, they are yet most anxious to see the list of their Subscribers greatly increased, not merely as the surest test of increasing sympathy for these afflicted persons, but as the best means of more widely extending the benevolent purpose of this Institution.

The Committee have long considered it needful, for the better regulation and control of the numerous male pupils, that there should be a resident Male Superintendent. To this office, as Master, they have now the pleasure to inform the meeting that they have appointed Mr. Maddy, a person well known to most of you, who at Lady-day entered upon the duties of his office.

It must be obvious to every one that no large establishment can be well conducted without rules and regulations, and without every officer and person knowing his proper place and duty. With this view the Committee have carefully drawn up and specified the several duties which shall belong to and be required of those who hold distinct offices in this establishment, and also the rules and regulations to be enjoined on the pupils.

The progress of the pupils in mental and manual acquirements continues to be very satisfactory. Many of the girls read surprisingly well. In this branch of education the female pupils in general excel the males. This, in part at least, is to be ascribed to their being employed in the finer branches of basket-work, which does not harden the fingers nor impair the sense of touch so much as the rougher work, on which the male pupils are necessarily employed. In arithmetic, on the other hand, the boys are generally more ready than the girls. By the help of a metal table, uniformly perforated with pentagonal holes, having pegs of like form fitted to them, the pupils are enabled to work out sums with considerable facility, in the same manner as other boys on an ordinary slate.

Every care is taken to instruct the pupils in religious knowledge, and to impress upon them a due sense of their deep responsibility. The Bible is the book chiefly used in the school. In this the pupils who attend the school daily read, and they are then questioned in the portion they have just read. In this way the chief truths and precepts of religion are sought to be impressed on their minds and memories, as well as the historical facts of the Old and New Testaments. The answers of many of the pupils on these occasions are very satisfactory. On Sunday afternoon all the younger pupils are assembled together; a chapter of the Bible is then distinctly read to them, and the instruction therein contained is pointed out to them by the Master, who further questions them in the portion they have heard, in other parts of Scripture, or in the Catechism. Every night and morning, too, a chapter in the Bible is read to them, after which they are taught to unite in prayer and praise to the God and Father of us all, "for all the blessings of this life, and above all for His inestimable love in the redemption of the world through our Lord Jesus Christ." Your Committee trust that the blessing of God will rest on these and every other means that are used to train them up in the way that they should go, and that in after life many of them will shew, by their exemplary conduct, the fruits of that moral and religious instruction which has been taught them within these walls.

In basket-making, both Mr. Taylor and Mr. Alston unite in declaring that we are not surpassed by any similar Institution in the kingdom. A pleasing fact ought here to be mentioned, which is highly creditable to our School of Industry, namely, that two of our pupils, a male and a female, who lately left our Asylum, have been engaged as Teachers of the Blind in the Institution at Exeter, where your Committee hear that they continue to give much satisfaction.

Of the progress of the pupils in Music, nothing need be said; the public have ample opportunity of judging for themselves. Whenever a pupil discovers a taste for Music, every encouragement is given for the cultivation of a talent which may possibly hereafter be profitable to the possessor, but at any rate will prove a desirable amusement to those who have comparatively so few enjoyments.

Your Committee are desirous of making known to this meeting that they have commenced another branch of manufacture, namely, that of mat-making, and with every prospect of success. Many of these articles are now exhibited in the Sale-room, among other of our productions, for which the patronage of the public is solicited.

On the subject of a Museum for the Blind, your Committee would request the attention of this meeting to the following extract from Mr. Taylor's valuable observations, recorded in last year's Report:—"A Museum is very desirable for an Asylum. It is impossible for the blind to have an accurate knowledge of most things without the aid of touch. A Museum should consist of models of houses, ships, animals, wheat, rye, vegetables, poisonous herbs (as berries of night-shade, and leaves of such), money, weights, geometrical figures, &c., solids, crystals, &c. A room of this kind for them to go into as a recreation would be invaluable, and your visitors would take pleasure in stocking the Museum." A beginning has already been made in this useful design by the kind contributions of friends, and the Committee will thankfully receive models of every description, which are strong enough to bear handling, and large enough to convey distinct perceptions to the touch of the Blind.

For the state of the finances of this Institution, your Committee beg to refer to the audited account of the Treasurer, which will be read to you ; but they cannot conclude without expressing their conviction of the benefits conferred on the much to be pitied objects of this Asylum, evidenced by the general health and happiness of its inmates, and by those habits of useful occupation, that main source and secret of contentment, which, here acquired, supply them with the means of supporting themselves in comfortable independence, instead of dragging on a wearisome existence in cheerless ignorance and inactivity, a heavy burden to the community, and often a still heavier burden to themselves.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS.

By an Act of Parliament made and passed in the second year of the reign of his late Majesty, King William the Fourth, intituled "An Act for better governing and regulating an Institution in the City of Bristol, called and known by the name of 'The Bristol Asylum, or School of Industry for the Blind,'" it is enacted that from and after the passing of the said Act, there shall be a Corporation, with perpetual succession, for the admission and employment of Blind Persons; and that every person who has contributed, or shall hereafter contribute, the sum of Ten Pounds at any one time as a Donation, and also that every person who shall annually subscribe One Pound and One Shilling, (so long as such annual subscription shall be continued) shall be respectively members thereof. And that they may hold and retain the houses and buildings now belonging to the Institution, and also purchase, and

That this Corporation may sell the houses and buildings now belonging to the Institution, and also all houses, buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, which they may hereafter purchase.

That this Corporation may, and they are thereby empowered to bind apprentice or apprentices, servant or servants, all or any of the children received under their care, to any of the persons employed to instruct the children in their own premises, for such time as they shall think fit, so as no such child shall be obliged to serve in such apprenticeship after the age of twenty-one years.

That a General Annual Meeting of the Donors and Subscribers shall be holden, in the said Institution or Asylum, or such other place in the City of Bristol as the Committee shall think fit, on or within seven days next after the first day of May in each year, at Twelve o'clock at Noon ; at which Meeting the Donors and Subscribers then assembled shall elect from amongst the Donors and Subscribers, under the limitations and provisions of the Act, a President, two Vice-Presidents, and a Treasurer ; and also a Committee for transacting and managing the affairs of the Institution ; and two Auditors of Accounts for the year ensuing. And the said Committee shall consist of fifteen of the said Donors and Subscribers, (exclusive of the President, Vice-Presidents, and Treasurer for the time being ;) and that the Members of the Committee then going out of office, shall be eligible to be re-elected. And that such General Annual Meeting shall have full power and authority to direct the Committee to carry into effect any measure which shall appear necessary or expedient.

That the Committee shall have power to call a Special General Meeting, on giving seven days' notice, in two or more of the Bristol Newspapers.

That all Questions shall be decided by vote ; and in case of an equality of votes, the Chairman shall have an additional or casting vote.

That a Clergyman of the United Church of England and Ireland shall be elected to be Chaplain, at every General Annual Meeting.

That the Committee for the time being shall meet once in every month ; any five of whom to be a quorum, for the purpose of transacting and managing the affairs of the said Institution.

That the said Committee shall have power and authority to make such Bye-Laws, Rules, and Regulations, for the general management of the Institution, and for the admission, employment, and removal of the Pupils, as they shall think fit ; and with power to alter, vary, or repeal, such Bye-Laws, &c., when, and as often as they shall think necessary. And also shall have power to appoint any persons to be Physician, Surgeon, Apothecary, Secretary, Solicitor, Matron, Superintendent, Collector, or other Officers, and also Teachers and Servants ; and from time to time to suspend or remove them, and appoint others in their stead ; and to pay such salaries, wages, and allowances, as they shall think reasonable. And shall have power to depute any of the Donors or Subscribers to be Visitors of the Institution. And that the said Committee shall have the management and application of the property, yearly and other income ; and shall have the custody of the Common Seal, with power to affix the same to such instruments as they shall think fit, with a proviso, that in case the majority of the Donors and Subscribers, at a General Annual or Special General Meeting, shall enter into any resolutions for the direction of the Committee, they shall be binding on and carried into effect by the said Committee.

That the said Treasurer, and other persons having monies, or securities for monies, or any books, papers, or writings, in his or their hands respectively, shall pay, transfer, and deliver over the same, to any person or persons, as any such General Annual or Special General Meeting, or the said Committee, shall direct.

That every Collector or Receiver of Donations or Subscriptions, shall give true and correct accounts of all the monies which he shall have received, and shall pay all such monies as shall remain in his hands to such person or persons as shall be appointed to receive the same.

That the Treasurer for the time being shall from time to time, with the consent and approbation of the Committee, lay out and invest all monies which shall be given, devised, or bequeathed to and for the charitable ends and purposes in the said Act mentioned, or any part thereof, other than and except so much thereof as the exigencies of the Institution shall call for the application or expenditure of, in any of the public funds of Great Britain, or at interest in Government Securities, or on mortgage of freehold lands in England or Wales, in the name of the said Corporation.

The Number of Pupils in the Institution on the 31st December, 1840, was 64, namely, 36 Males and 28 Females.
